THE MUSIC OF ROMANCE

A Notable Concert of Mandolins and Guitars.

Ernest Kaai's long awaited instrumental concert takes place on Saturday evening at Progress Hall, and promises to be one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever given in the islands.

The concert will be participated in by pupils of the popular artist, and has been arranged primarily for the benefit of parents and friends of Mr. Kaai's students, though all others are welcome.

The guitar and mandolin will do the lion's share of the instrumental work and it is not beside the mark to say that both are Hawaii's national instruments. They express the romance of the islands as they alone can and the fact that they are par excellence instruments of the open air has not been the least factor in establishing their local popularity.

The guitar of old breathed strains of love and inspired countless deeds of gallantry when manipulated 'neath rose-clad casements by ardent troubadours and its latter-day disciples, locally, appear to worthily sustain the prestige and chivalrous reputation of romance's most favored maker of music.

An excellent program has been arranged which abounds with features, indeed every item on the musical menu is calculated to inspire delight and produce enjoyment.

The Children's Mandolin Club will render choice selections. The members range from 6 to 13 years in age and the amount of juvenile talent that has been uncovered in this department is surprising.

Then there will be the Juvenile Mandolin Club proper, an organization composed of young men. Another great attraction will be selections by the Chinese Mandolin and Guitar Club. These sons of Old Cathay have prosecuted their musical studies with an amazing amount of success and their playing will be a pleasant revelation to their audience on Saturday night.

One young Chinese student who is booked to appear is only seven years of age but plays the zither extraordinarily well and is one of Kaai's most promising pupils.

Another soloist of note who is well known to the Honolulu musical public is Master Willie Ball, who is leaving the islands in the near future and makes his last appearance at this concert. Willie's specialty is the mandolin and he is thoroughly at home with that instrument. On Saturday the audience will be treated to the pick of his repertoire.

Of course Ernest Kaai will be on hand with his inimitable solos on guitar and mandolin and last but not least Kaai's Orchestra will delight with selections scattered over the program.

Altogether the concert should be quite an important event in the musical history of Honolulu and Mr. Kaai's enterprise in the matter will undoubtedly be well rewarded. Tickets are on sale at Wall, Nichols Co., 75c. each.

TO REPORT ON LABOR STATUS IN HAWAII

United States Labor Commissioner Charles P. Neill, who has been taking a view of labor conditions in the Hawaiian islands, arrived here on the steamer China yesterday and is a guest at the Hotel St. Francis. He is on his way back to Washington, D. C., where he expects to prepare an exhaustive report on the labor situation on the big sugar plantations and elsewhere in the islands. Such a report must be made, he said yesterday, at least every five years, according to the provisions of the organic act of the Territory. Mr. Neill was unwilling, when questioned about his mission, to foreshadow his report by discussing conditions in the islands, but he said that he discovered nothing of a startling nature as a result of his investigations. He expects to leave for Washington today. Mr. Neill succeeded Carroll D. Wright as United States Labor Commissioner in February last. Prior to that he was professor of political economy in the Catholic University at Washington, D. C.—Chronicle.

A HONOLULU ROMANCE ENDS

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 5.—The filing of a divorce suit by Mrs. Walter Marr against her husband, alleging cruel and abusive treatment, brings up for public hearing an interesting history of their married life.

After a separation Marr stole his little son one night and fled to San Francisco. Mrs. Marr and her father followed.

From San Francisco Marr escaped on a steamship for Honolulu, followed by the pursuing pair on the next liner. In Honolulu a second child was born to Mrs. Marr. The entire family returned to Fall River, where their arrival was soon followed by the arrest of Marr on an insanity complaint by his wife. It was decided that Marr was not insane and by order of the court he was released.

All Settled.—Tess—Harry told me he was going to propose to a girl I knew last night.

Jess—Yes, and he'll never do it again. Tess—Why, who was the girl? Jess—F, and I accepted him.—Philadelphia Press.
